About & Services

Isabella is a German-Italian blogger and photographer focusing on cheese & travel. A passionate foodie and certified cheese expert with a background in architecture and design, she loves to explore the landscape of food and culture through writing, foodstyling, and photography. She serves as a judge for international cheese competitions, and since 2019 has run the cheese-focused blog formaggiastic.com. Her recent media appearances include hosting the Italian podcast Casefici Agricoli, being a guest on the Austrian podcast “Küchengespräche,” and being featured on Austrian TV’s ORF Seitenblicke for her contribution to the photography exhibition “Say Cheese”. Isabella lives and works in Vienna, Austria and Treviso, Italy.
